

Currently, students and staff have no way to know how many gym machines are available for use at the school's fitness centers. This lack of information can lead to several issues. During busy times, people may travel to the gym only to find that most of the equipment is already in use, causing long wait times and frustration. It also makes it difficult for users to plan their workouts efficiently or choose the best time to visit.